Once upon a time, on a bright sunny day, Mama Plane decided to take her little daughter Yara, with her to work at the airport, with Saudi Ground Services

She wanted Yara to have some fun and unleash her wings in the air, while discovering the wonders of aviation!

When Mama Plane and little Yara arrived to the landing ramp*, the turnaround coordinator* waved at them welcomingly.

Ramp is the area of an airport where aircraft are parked, unloaded or loaded, refilled, or boarded.

The turn around coordinator* made sure the runway is clear for them to land, and directed them to it.

Turnaround coordinator is the one responsible for the safe planning and execution of the aircraft handling processes when the aircraft is on the ground.

As soon as they landed, he started examining their doors and bodies to ensure they're in perfect condition. He then spent some time playing with little Yara.

After landing, Uncle Pushback* hurriedly went to his friend Mama Plane to take her to the correct parking position, reminding her saying “your safety is our safety!”

Pushback is an aviation vehicle which is used when an aircraft needs to be pushed back by an external power.

Little Yara was admiring Mama Plane and her coworkers, amazed by their flawless movement like a flock of birds flying!

The staff began loading the baggage in the airplanes' cargo, when little Yara started imagining the travel adventures awaiting each bag.

Airplanes cargo is the part of airplane that is designed for the carriage of cargo (Luggage) rather than passengers.

After they were done, it was finally time for the cabin grooming to prepare her for the next flight – Mama Plane’s favorite part before taking off!

Cabin grooming is cleaning aircraft cabins and airplanes after usage. Staff vacuums the airplane or sweeps the interior of cabin, brushes debris from seats, and arranges seat belts.

Mama Plane was happy that her daughter is learning about this amazing world, and gratefulness filled little Yara's heart, as she looked at her mother with pride and admiration!

Yara flew up in the air saying, "I can't wait to grow up and have the same experiences as my mother! I'll get to be part of everyone's adventures, discover my country and meet people from all around the world! Hurray!"

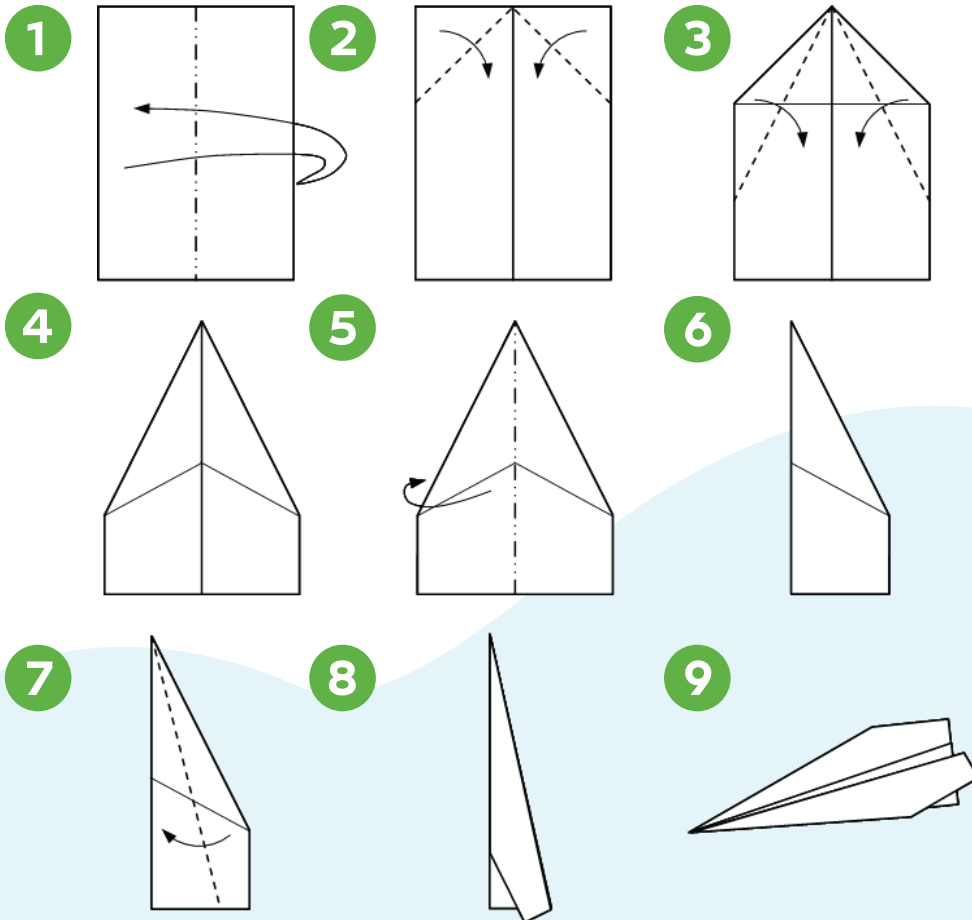

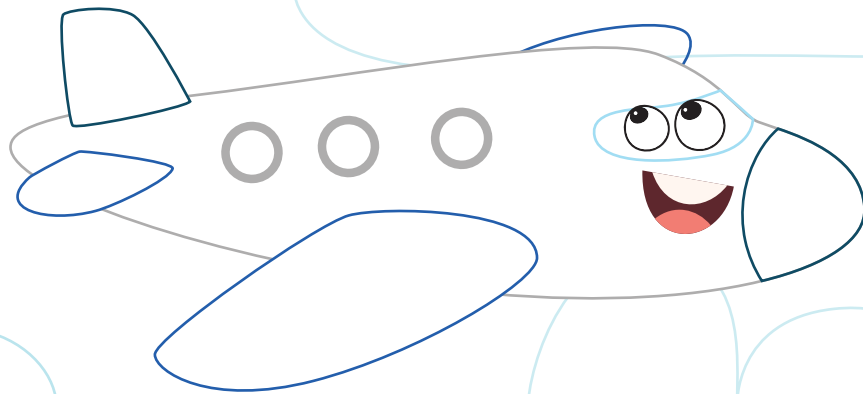

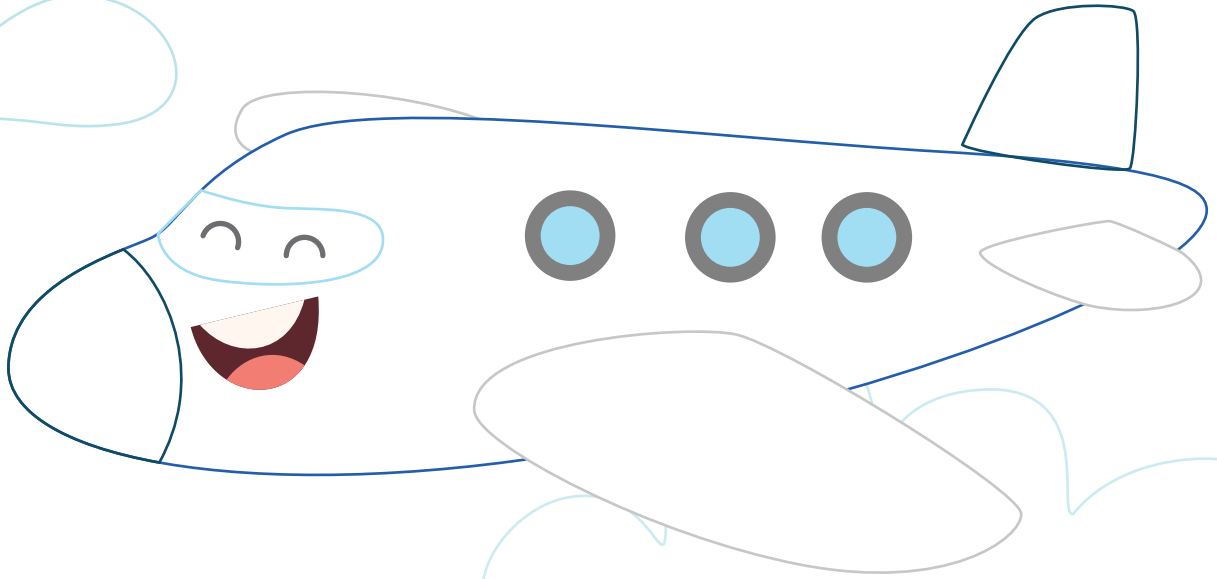

The End

Have fun with your kid by making your own airplane!
